

Washington—The tire industry has been secretly selected by the justice department as the first target in the drive against price-fixing which has been personally ordered by the President.

Prosecutions shortly will be launched against fourteen manufacturers who submitted identical bids to the treasury. If present plans go through, these suits will be followed by another flock against a group of big newsprint producers.

Basis of the action against the tire-makers is evidence obtained by a wily stratagem of Robert Jackson, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, and Herman Oliphant, chief counsel of the treasury. The latter department called for bids on a large order of tires and tubes. Fourteen were received, every one identical down to the last fraction of a cent.

Jackson advised Oliphant to reject the bids on the ground of "evidence of collusion" and to ask for a new set.

"We've got these firms over a barrel," Jackson said. "Whatever they do they are in hot water. If they submit identical bids again it will be a confirmation of their collusion. If they don't it will be a confession that they got together the first time and are scared."

Oliphant followed Jackson's suggestion and new bids were called for. Again they were identical down to the last decimal point. Jackson immediately started preparations for court action.

Note: Despite the solid front of the fourteen manufacturers, the government got the tires and tubes it wanted at a much cheaper price. The treasury called in the tire expert of a large mail order firm, asked him what price he could offer. His figure was 25 per cent less, and he got the business.

DUKE, DUCHESS DECIDE TO TOUR UNITED STATES

Paris, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor today disregarded an American labor protest against "slumming parties" professing to help and to study labor and proceeded with plans to sail on the liner Bremen tomorrow for a United States tour.

A representative of the duke said no change of arrangements had been made or contemplated. (The Baltimore Federation of Labor Wednesday night "condemned" the former British monarch for planning to tour America with Charles E. Badaux as his guide, termed Badaux an "arch-enemy of labor." The resolution contained the "slumming party" reference.)

The duke and his American-born wife were invited to a luncheon today at the British embassy in Paris—the second occasion upon which Windsor had been entertained by a British diplomatic official since the December abdication.

The Windsors were expected to travel to Cherbourg tomorrow in a special coach or a special compartment to board the Bremen.

Last night the duke and duchess were honor guests at a farewell dinner given by United States Ambassador William Bullitt.

PLANS IN DOUBT

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—American labor criticism of Charles E. Badaux apparently has left in doubt his exact status in connection with the forthcoming American trip of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. A wealthy engineer's secretary said today that "that matter has not been decided." She said Badaux who came here last night from Washington, was "out of town."

Badaux said last night that he had telephoned the duke in Paris and offered to withdraw as guide, but that the duke had "positively and definitely waved aside" the suggestion.

His secretary's statement today indicated, however, that some further word might be expected.

NAZI GERMANY MAY MEDIATE SINO-JAP WAR

Both China, Japan Indebted; Might Accept It

Berlin, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Germany expected today to steal a march on the Brussels conference, which she declined to attend, and settle the Chinese-Japanese war herself.

Preliminary informal requests from both China and Japan for Chancellor Hitler to act as an umpire in their four-month-old conflict were regarded by Germany as so bona fide that Hitler, according to a source close to the chancellery, ordered diplomat Joachim von Ribbentrop to return post haste from Rome to undertake preliminary negotiations.

German sources conceded that considerable time might yet elapse before an official announcement of Hitler's pivotal role could be made.

They also admitted that the fortunes of war might so turn that plans for mediation would have to be postponed.

But they were fully convinced that if anyone could settle the Far Eastern difficulties as an impartial outsider it was Germany. While making no secret of her friendship for Japan, the Reich, at the same time has been careful to maintain good relations with China.

Moreover China is indebted to Germany because of the German military experts who have aided her and because Germany has renounced all claims to extraterritoriality for her nations in China.

Germany thus was regarded as having no ax to grind.

Hitler Must Be Boss

Before accepting the role of mediator, however, sources close to the chancellery said Hitler wanted to make absolutely sure that his judgment would be accepted unquestioningly.

The informal Chinese-Japanese invitations to Hitler, tendered partly through Oskar Trautmann, German ambassador to China and partly through Japanese channels, were said by a trustworthy source to have reached Hitler Wednesday night.

The Fuehrer then commissioned Von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London, to hurry to Rome to conclude an Italian-German-Japanese pact against the Communists. International, it was said, and return to Berlin quickly to pave the way for the Chinese-Japanese mediation.

JAPS SAY "HANDS OFF"

Tokyo, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A Japanese foreign office source declared today that Japan was "unable to accept any mediation whatsoever" in her conflict with China.

"Japan does not recede from her original contention that peace is possible only through direct negotiations between Japan and China, and then only if China changes her attitude," the source said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the rest of the world talked vaguely on an armistice in the Orient, it developed today that Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany had received informal requests to act as the mediator from both Japan and China.

The Nine-Power Treaty conference at Brussels adjourned until tomorrow, failing to agree on the

He's Most Traveled

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt has become the nation's most traveled president.

His arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y., last night ended the eighth 600-mile round trip to his mother's estate this year and raised his aggregate travel mileage since he became chief executive to 114,008.

This barely passed the 114,000 miles covered by William Howard Taft from 1909 to 1913.

Youth, Arrested, Threatened to Burn Home, Poison Parents, Self

John Greenfield, 19, living with his mother, Mrs. Irene Doan, at 86 Johnson street, was taken into custody today by police last night, when his mother called the officers, stating that her son planned to poison himself and his parents and to burn their home. Assistant State Attorney Gerald Jones was called to the police station this morning to investigate the charges and a complaint charging Greenfield with disturbing the peace was lodged before Justice J. O. Shaulis, who continued the hearing until next Tuesday and Greenfield was taken to the county jail in default of $500 bond.

Lost His Bet

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Minnesota-Notre Dame football game last week-end had repercussions in a divorce court here yesterday.

Mrs. Leona Mosley Birnbaum, 29, charged in a divorce bill that her husband, Merrill Birnbaum, an investment broker, struck her at Minneapolis Oct. 30, because he lost a bet on the game.

ROOSEVELT SAYS HE FAVORS C. I. O.-A. F. L. REUNION

Factions Agree To Discuss Fundamental Issues

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—An informed person said today C. I. O. members of the labor peace conference had suggested to A. F. of L. representatives creation of a "super-committee" of 25 to direct the whole American labor movement.

This specific proposal for ending the bitter fight between the two workers' organizations became known shortly after President Roosevelt had told a press conference he always had favored reunion of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The peace suggestion was submitted to the conference yesterday. It was offered, the informed person said, as a mechanism both for bringing the two organizations together and for settling jurisdictional disputes. The question of jurisdiction is one of the toughest before the conference.

The proposed committee was described as an executive council, presumably to be composed of representatives of each organization.

The president gave his comment in reply to the final question put at his first press interview since returning to Washington after a 12-day stay at Hyde Park. His statement came a few hours before peace committees of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. were to resume their sessions.

The president was asked if he favored action to bring the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. together. He replied he always had advocated that.

Asked if the administration had been taking an active part in trying to get the warring labor factions together, he replied not that he knew of.

Asked next if Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. delegate to the peace conference, would call on him soon, the president said he would. He said the engagement had been planned for some time.

The labor peace conference meanwhile struck at the fundamental issue between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. today by agreeing to discuss which industries should have broad industrial unions.

Observers interested in ending the two-year dispute between these factions of organized labor called the decision a hopeful sign. Negotiators for both sides indicated for the first time that there had been some actual progress.

George M. Harrison, the broad-shouldered, curly-speaking chairman of the A. F. of L. delegates, announced after yesterday's session that the conference, besides discussing industrial unionism, would consider whether the num-

Didrikson Eager For Golf Match With Montague

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mildred "Babe" Didrikson announced today that she had accepted an invitation to join "Mysterious" John Montague, Babe Ruth and Helen Hicks in Montague's first start as a public performer at golf at a Long Island club, Nov. 14.

The match will be for the benefit of the New York boys' club, she said. "Playing with Monty," declared Miss Didrikson, "will be right down my alley. I'm sort of a long hitter myself."

Mrs. Doan complained that after repeated threats upon the part of her son to destroy their home by burning the house, he mixed up potato bog poison last night and threatened to swallow some of the mixture to take his own life, then mix the remainder in the food of his mother and step-father, to take their lives. Fearing that he would carry out his threats, Mrs. Doan summoned the police and asked that they take her son in custody. During the investigation this morning, she stated that her son had served terms in the Ct. Charles boys' training school in Illinois and the Wisconsin state reformatory at Green Bay, Wis.

G. O. P. MEETS TO DECIDE ON MID-TERM MEETING

Policy Committee Appointment Is Probability

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Members of the Republican national committee met today to determine whether they should call a mid-term convention to defend the party's stand on governmental affairs.

As they went into session, an authoritative source said a compromise resolution would be introduced under which an immediate decision on the controverted question would be deferred.

This source said the new proposal would be for the creation of a "policy committee" of 100 authorized to ascertain the advisability of arranging an off-year gathering.

George H. Bender, president of the National Federation of Republican Clubs issued an eleven-hour statement contending an interim convention was needed to "plan a program which will serve as a rallying point for those who oppose one-man, one-party domination of national affairs."

Alf M. Landon's opposition to a convention for the present and the outspoken antipathy of other party leaders dimmed prospects for an affirmative decision on the convention plan.

78 Members Present
The proxy committee reported 78 committee members were present. Sixteen proxies were accepted. Daniel E. Pomeroy of New Jersey was elected vice chairman of the national committee to succeed the late J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut. Pomeroy was nominated by Charles D. Hilles of New York, who recently resigned from the committee.

A subcommittee of the national convention was appointed to consider a petition seeking to unseat Joseph "Wireless Joe" Tolbert as national committeeman from South Carolina.

Committeeman E. F. Colladay of the District of Columbia said he had an affidavit charging Tolbert voted against Republican nominees.

National Treasurer C. B. Goodspeed reported the party's current deficit was $836,558. Cash on hand, he added, was $21,464.

At the close of the 1936 campaign, the deficit was $1,298,848. National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton pointed out Goodspeed had collected about $700,000 between the close of the campaign and Oct. 31, 1937.

On the motion of Hilles the national committee authorized a plan to borrow money to liquidate the deficit.

RESENTS WISECRACK

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Rep. Hamilton (R-NY) criticized today a "wise-crack" he said National Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton made about Senator Borah (R-Idaho).

Fish attacked a statement he said Hamilton had made to the effect that "it will be a millennium when Borah says anything affirmatively for the Republican party." The New Yorker said the remark was likely to antagonize "millions of Republicans whom we badly need."

The "wise-crack," Fish said, "proves that he (Hamilton) is not fitted, in view of his attacks on social security and his recent statement, to be head of the Republican party."

RE STUDY OF FDR COURT PROPOSAL STARTED TODAY

Revival Of Issue To Depend Largely On Findings

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Members of a Senate subcommittee began gathering today—nine months from the day President Roosevelt offered his court reorganization bill—to start a fresh study of the issues raised by that proposal.

Whether the judiciary issue is revised in Congress may depend on their findings. President Roosevelt has given no indication of his own intentions.

The committee was ordered by the Senate to study the whole judicial system and all the proposals made last spring for revising it.

Because of the make-up of the committee, however, there is no likelihood that it will recommend anything very close to the president's proposal to revise the Supreme Court.

First of the committeemen to arrive was Senator Hatch (D-NM) who opposed the original Roosevelt bill but favored the substitute which the Senate later rejected.

He said he now favors a constitutional amendment to compel retirement of Supreme Court justices at 75 and also a requirement that the court could not invalidate acts of congress except by a two-thirds vote.

During congressional recess, subcommittee members have been making a nationwide study of court congestion as a preliminary to their broader inquiry.

Consul-General's Assassin Doomed

Beirut, Lebanon, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Meguerdich Karayan was condemned to death today for the assassination of James Theodore Martiner, United States consul-general.

SENTENCED FOR HOLDUP

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Robert Benner, 30, described by his counsel as an Oregon rancher, was sentenced to one to 20 years imprisonment today for a $6 holdup of a Loop theater Sept. 13.

Benner asked the court for leniency, saying the gun he used was not loaded. Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Dunne promised to recommend parole after the minimum term was served.

Supervisors Engage in Mutiny On the Bounty, Discuss Pelts

Mutiny on the Bounty involved members of the Lee county board of supervisors yesterday afternoon as they discussed the payment on bounties on foxes, and elicited various methods of marking the pelts of animals presented for the payment of the bounty, to prevent duplicate payments. The bounty on fox in Lee county has been discussed for almost a year among certain of the supervisors but it was not until Supervisor John Archer of Brooklyn township presented the subject that serious consideration was given the plan.

Supervisor Archer informed the board that foxes have increased in great numbers in certain townships of the county where they are not only depleting the rabbits, quail and pheasant but are a detriment to the farmers' flocks of chickens, ducks and geese. He favored the payment of a $3 bounty for old foxes and $150 for cubs, which figures were adopted by the board.

The mutinous condition arose after Supervisor L. D. Hemenway had called the attention of the board to the fact that while favoring the fox bounty program, no appropriation had been made and no fund specified from which the bounty claims were to be paid. Some suggested paying the claims from the wolf bounty fund, others favored a special appropriation, and at the Alto township supervisor's suggestion, it was finally decided that no claims will be paid until after the regular December meeting of the board, when a sum will be appropriated for this purpose. Supervisors were instructed that fox bounty orders would not be honored until after the December meeting and to instruct their township officials of the arrangement.

Then came the discussion over the method of marking a fox pelt to prevent its being presented more than one time for the payment of bounty, and to eliminate the possibility of pelts being brought into the county from other counties. Slitting or puncturing the ears on the pelts was not looked upon favorably, as it was stated that this would deface the hide for sale purposes. A mark similar to a federal meat stamp was suggested, then another method of placing a tattoo mark on the hide was advanced. After some discussion, it was decided that persons taking fox will present them to the supervisor of the township, who will mark the ears to prevent double payment of bounty.

From Whiteside Jungles

Supervisor Archer informed the board members that the new bounty would be paid for fox taken in Lee county and that his proposal would not include tigers or lions which might wander into Lee from Whiteside county.

The judiciary committee reported to the board granting the application of Mary J. Jenkins of this city, for a blind pension.

PRIEST CLAIMS BRIBE OFFERED BY PLAINTIFF

Defends Shanahan As Bizarre Case Nears Conclusion

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The court battle over David E. Shanahan's deathbed marriage and his will neared a conclusion today, after a priest testified he had been offered a "little sugar or lettuce" a bribe by one of the plaintiffs' counsel.

The Rev. Joseph A. Maloney named and pointed out in court Elmer J. Whitty, associate with Eugene P. Kealy, counsel for the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, as the lawyer who offered him a bribe to effect a settlement of the dispute over the veteran Illinois legislator's $850,000 estate. Whitty denied the charge.

The Flynn sisters, as cousins, are seeking to void the marriage of Shanahan to his secretary, Miss Helen Treesch, which was performed in a hospital, Oct. 5, 1936, and to invalidate the will which left the bulk of the estate to the widow.

Shanahan, former speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, died Oct. 18, 13 days after the marriage was performed by Father Maloney.

Offer Made This Year

Father Maloney, who testified before a jury in circuit court yesterday in behalf of the widow, said the offer was made when he and Mr. Whitty had luncheon early this year.

"Mr. Whitty said Dr. Charles Sawyer (Shanahan's personal physician) and Father Louis E. De Cella (former hospital chaplain) had run out, and I was the only one left who could talk to Mrs. Shanahan," the priest testified.

"If I could do this, he said, it might mean a little sugar or lettuce for me."

Kealy motioned to Attorney Whitty who was in the courtroom to stand up.

"Is this the man you mean, Father?" he asked.

"Yes," said the pastor.

Called to the witness stand Whitty was asked: "Did you discuss this case?"

He answered:

Admits Faith

"Yes, I said, 'Father, I'm a member of your faith. I feel morally responsible after investigating'"

RECALL CAREER OF EARLIEST PUBLIC ENEMY

Apache Raider Was En- emy No. 1 Of 80's

The career of one of America's earliest "Public Enemies No. 1," Geronimo, notorious Apache raider—is recalled by the death recently of Brigadier General R. A. Brown, who assisted in the pursuit and eventual capture of the outlaw Indian in the Southwest in the 80's.

"Various Indian leaders had caused trouble for Americans of the frontier for nearly half a century," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, "but the long series of skirmishes and campaigns against these trouble-makers was climaxed between 1883 and 1886 by what is known as the Geronimo war."

Mexicans Massacred His Family

"The hatred of Geronimo for the whites dated from a raid on an Apache camp by a military governor of the Mexican State of Sonora, in which Geronimo's young wife and three children were massacred. Geronimo had been on a trading expedition with other Apache braves. Returning to his camp in the wilds of Chihuahua, Mexico, he discovered the depredations which had been committed and began straightway his career of vengeance."

From 1858 until 1873, he led repeated war parties into Mexico from his headquarters in New Mexico. In 1876, he was arrested by Indian Agent John Clum, and taken to Fort Apache, Arizona, for imprisonment. However, on the arrival of a new agent, the warrior obtained his freedom. He fled to Mexico, killing Albert Sterling, chief of the agency police, on the way.

5,000 Troops Sent in Pursuit

"This brought about the hide-and-seek game played by the fierce Apaches and the United States army between the years 1883 and 1886—a long series of raids, massacres, escapes, captures, and surrenders."

"Finally, under General Nelson A. Miles, a veritable army of 5,000 soldiers and 500 Indian scouts undertook the task of catching Geronimo. The campaign was precipitated by Geronimo himself with a terrible raid, which left a trail of blood all the way back to Mexico, whence the Apache outlaw always fled when it was necessary for him to hide. Captain H. W. Lawton pursued Geronimo into Mexico with a group made up of 1,000 American soldiers, 100 Mexican irregulars, 500 Indian Scouts and 1,000 ranchers. Geronimo at this time had only 18 warriors."

"Lawton's scouts, by means of heliographs, kept him continually informed of the Apaches' whereabouts, so that the fugitives were forced to keep constantly on the move. Geronimo's hatred, embittered by the relentless pursuit, drove him to slaughter all whites who crossed his path. Seven hundred white men were killed during the period in which Geronimo was at large."

"Lawton finally captured the Apache camp, appropriating food supplies, ammunition and ponies, but Geronimo was not yet through and he led Lawton's men a harrowing chase, forcing them to endure terrible hardships."

"After three discouraging months word came unexpectedly that the Apaches were willing to give themselves up. Lieutenant Charles B. Gatewood set out to contact Geronimo, taking with him two loyal Indian scouts, who found the Apache camp by following the trail of the two squaws who had delivered the Apache message. Next day Gatewood, accompanied by General Brown, then a lieutenant, arranged Geronimo's surrender."

"The Indians were taken back to the United States and sent to Florida. There they were kept at hard labor for three years, though the government had promised that they would be reunited with their families. This was finally brought about through the efforts of the Indian Rights association. They were moved to Alabama, then to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and later to a reservation in New Mexico."

Heavier Hogs In 1938 Forecast And Also Lower Prices

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department forecast today heavier hogs, but lower prices, in 1938.

Agricultural experts predicted there would be fewer hogs on the market. They said prices to producers were expected to average lower than in 1936-1937.

"There will be a somewhat weaker domestic demand for hog products during the coming marketing year," said the department, "and little improvement in export demand. Exports this year have been near the low figures of 1936."

"A large increase is forecast in the number of pigs raised in 1938 but this will not be reflected in larger slaughter until late 1938 and 1939."

BRITAIN'S WAR STAND BARES PERIL TO U. S.

The traditional big-heartedness of the British statesman, who is always willing to give full moral support to any other nation which wants to help save the British empire, was never better illustrated than by dapper Anthony Eden's little speech, made just before he set out to attend the Brussels conference.

Great Britain, said Mr. Eden, will be very happy to go "just as far as the United States will go" in measures to end the Chinese-Japanese war.

She will not rush out in front, he said—but she will not be left behind, either. She will follow Uncle Sam's lead wholeheartedly, and if the old gentleman gets up on the firing line, John Bull will be right at his elbow, or reasonably close to it.

This sounds very fine until the moment when you stop to analyze the Chinese situation and see just who owns most of the chestnuts that are resting on the coals. Then it begins to look different.

The real estate that is being shot full of holes at Shanghai is not owned by Americans—not very much of it, anyhow. It is largely British.

The foreign trade that is stagnating while Chinese and Japanese slug one another in the mud is not very heavily American. It is mostly British.

The heavy investments that are dwindling and dying because of the war are not principally American. They are reckoned more often in pounds sterling than in dollars.

Most important, the world-wide imperialistic system which is threatened to its very core by this sudden uprising of oriental peoples, who are grimly proving that the white races can be defied with impunity and that the exploited east can find the strength to look after its own affairs—this system is not American, but British. More exactly, it is the British empire itself.

America has a stake in the Chinese situation, of course—but it is a relatively small one. Britain has an incalculably large one. More than any other nation on earth, it is to her interest to see peace restored and Japanese military might restrained.

It goes a little against the grain, therefore, to see the British foreign secretary declaring that England will "go just as far as the United States will go" in trying to bring about a settlement.

It serves, too, as a very timely warning to the American government. Reversing a policy which has existed since the Versailles peace conference, that government is now seeking to co-operate with other nations to restore international order. Here is an indication that Uncle Sam's co-operation is expected to result in his getting out in front and taking the lead.

The warning must be heeded, unless we want to find ourselves engaged in the thankless game of raking British chestnuts out of a very hot fire.

ROOM AT THE TOP

Jobs may be short these days, in the professions as well as the trades, but there is still an unfilled need for men and women of outstanding ability and training. So says William R. White, New York state superintendent of banks, in an address before Bucknell College students.

This, of course, is simply another way of phrasing the old saying that "there's always room at the top"; and the old saying is just as true now as it always was. The really superior person can always make a place for himself.

But only a few of us, unfortunately, are really superior persons. It is the opening for the average person that we're interested in; and unless there is some assurance that an ordinarily intelligent and skillful youth can have an ordinarily good chance of finding a job for himself when he starts out, young collegians—and other youngsters as well—may eye the future with misgiving.

TAXES YOU DON'T SEE

The farmer pays taxes every year on his farm; if the tax rate goes up he notices it at once and squawks. The city dweller who lives in an apartment or a rented house pays no taxes at all; if the tax rate goes up he says not a word, thinking that it does not affect him personally.

That the city dweller thereby kids himself ruinously is pointed out in a tax study prepared by Dr. Mabel Newcomer of Vassar College for the Twentieth Century Fund.

For the city dweller, Dr. Newcomer remarks, actually pays heavier taxes than the farmer. His monthly rent payments include a property tax far higher than that in rural regions. Almost everything he buys has a similar hidden tax. Dr. Newcomer sums it up by showing that an average Illinois farmer who makes $1000 a year pays out 10.4 per cent of his income in taxes; but his brother in the city, who has the same income, pays out 19.3 per cent in taxes.

Until city folk generally realize this fact, and protest accordingly, there is scant hope of reducing the heavy tax load.

Where to Go This Coming Week-End

By Dede Welch, Secretary Dixon Branch Chicago Motor Club

If you've ever been to the Great Smokies in the fall of the year, you'll be thinking, along about now, how the constant blue haze is deepened, the folds of the mountain's skirts are brightened with red and brown patterns against the evergreens, and up in the mountains in the early mornings the frost lies like a silver veil over the rocks, and you can pick up pieces of frost-ice along the roads—if you've ever been to the Smokies in the fall, you'll be wanting to go back.

If your first visit is still before you, try to go now before the end of November, for then the fall coloring will be at its height. Do you like to hike? Then take the old hiking boots and clothes, and when you reach Gatlinburg, arrange there to climb the summit of Mount LeConte, the highest and most spectacular peak in the Great Smokey Mountain national park. Crude accommodations are provided for those who wish to spend the night, and if you do, chances are that you will be favored with a morning so beautiful that to remember it is to remember a dream. Far below you, the morning mist may blanket the valleys, while to the east, the sun seems to rise from a horizon lower than the spot on which you stand. You are on an island, isolated from all the world.

As the fog lifts, your view widens, and you can watch the shadows of the mountains leave the wooded slopes to brighten and glow with color in the morning sun. If the night on the mountain is too strenuous, or too much time to spend, the next best thing is to start early to drive the Indian Gap highway from Knoxville to Asheville, and to get the early-morning view from the summit, where parking space has been provided.

The Gap highway furnishes continuous breath-taking views and if it is your first trip or your tenth, you'll be watching the peaks and naming them before you are through, the Chimneys, Le Conte, Thunderhead, and Bald. There are no accommodations in the park itself as yet but Knoxville, Garlinburg, and Asheville all provide places to headquarter while seeing the park.

It is difficult to describe this region! But think of dense forests, dashing mountain streams, mile high peaks—a wilderness which today is just as it was back yonder when the Indian was the only human living on this continent. Here is wilderness—not in some far distant, inaccessible country—but within easy traveling distance of two-thirds of the people in the United States. Today, the Great Smokies stand serene as they were found by our earliest pioneers—protected now by a wise government, that their natural beauties may continue to bless and inspire. The Great Smokey Mountain National Park, the land of the sky, a resort region incomparable in scenic beauty—be sure to see all of it!

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

Mr. and Mrs. Hylife were on a vacation trip. Mrs. Hylife had watched her husband closely to see that he didn't get away on any private excursions because she knew his frivolous nature. One evening she decided to take a nap before going out so, while Mrs. Hylife rested, her husband went party-hunting in the hotel. Being a hunter of no mean ability he found his quarry and, although the Yale lock on the door proved a temporary barrier, was soon singing as far off key as anyone else and even serenaded other floors of the hotel. When he returned to his room his wife of course was indignant. By way of explanation Mr. Hylife flatteringly stated that he had returned to the room several times but upon peeking through the keyhole discovered she was still resting and he said, "You know, dear, how you bawl me out when I disturb your rest." She started to forgive him, picked up her coat and the room key and started to walk out the door when she suddenly whirled and caught Mr. Hylife off balance with a right hook. As he crashed to the floor she said, "Liar!" Why was Mrs. Hylife so harsh with her husband.

Interesting Film To Be Shown at Lutheran Church

The Sun Dance of the Rocky Mountain Indian Reservation, Montana will be shown as part of a three-reel motion picture "Rocky Boy Mission in Action" to be presented in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Dr. Lloyd Warren pastor, Wednesday, November 10, at 7:30 P. M. The public is cordially invited.

Gable, son of the Rev. W. H. Gable, missionary of the United Lutheran church to the Indians at Rocky Boy, The interior of the "Repentance Lodge" where men and women dance continually for forty hours is shown besides another colorful dance known as the Grass Dance.

Following the Sun Dance is shown the efforts of the United States government in reclaiming the Indian for civilization. The activities of the Lutheran Mission are then described, the film closing with a Christmas story with Annie Chippewa, an Indian girl, in the principal role.

Three Youths Tell Foreign Travel Club Of Exploits In Other Lands Thursday Night

At one of their most delightful informal and conversational meetings of the year the Foreign Travel club Thursday night was treated to a travelogue by three youths who have recently returned from trips abroad.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rasch, 212 Ottawa avenue. The guests of honor were Jack Keegan of Polo, Orval Gearhart and William Christos, Jr. of Dixon.

Miss Alice Richardson first introduced Jack and Orval for short talks on their trip to Europe this summer for the World Boy Scout jamboree in which they were delegates. Christos then thrilled the club with his unusual experiences in Greece, Turkey, and Egypt during his nine months' visit abroad.

Keegan was particularly impressed with the Tower of London which housed the famous crown jewels of England, and he dwelt at some length on the size and beauty of the Great Mogul diamond, one of the largest in the world. He was interested in Eaton college, his visit in Coventry, and related an amusing anecdote on the attempts of the Scouts to get drinking water in a country where most people drink light wines and liquor instead as substitutes.

The Polo boy also listed among his most vivid memories well-preserved Roman aqueducts in France, the lovely fountains of Versailles and Marie Antoinette's canal, the beautiful lacework of Brussels in Belgium and flowers of the Netherlands where the Jamboree was held. He stated the Boy Scouts of foreign lands were all impressed by the luxury of the American camp which to the U. S. boys seems just ordinary.

Young Gearhart continued the travelogue by taking his eager audience into Nazi Germany. His description of sunset on the stained glass windows of Cologne's cathedral recalled happy memories to many others of the group who had experienced the beauties of that hour in the venerable German city on the Rhine.

He described a typical ruined castle with its winding stairs, cold forbidding stone walls and musty rooms, its cavernous wine cellars, and rooms within which were bits of cast off armor thrown hither and yon. He spoke of the delights of Lucerne, the panorama of Swiss scenery as viewed from an Alpine peak. He transported his listeners into sunny Italy for glimpses of Milan, the gondolas of Venice and added a sinister note in his description of Fascist soldiers which guarded the kind enroute to the christening of Italy's newest battleship.

Christos carried his audience into the less widely-known lands bordering the eastern Mediterranean. He dwelt at some length on the modernity of Athens contrasted with the beauties of the ancient Acropolis and the Parthenon. He also contrasted modern Athens with primitive Samos with its donkey transportation, vineyards, quaint churches, wood-carvings and—fleas. Bill was ordered to join the Greek army after the expiration of his passport which was good for only 5 months so he fled the country to Turkey. Because he couldn't speak the Turkish language and scarcely anyone could understand Greek, he embarked for Egypt, viewed the pyramids and revealed the interesting and little known fact that pyramids do not at anytime cast shadows during the day. Another feature of Christos' talk was his harrowing description of prison tortures in Greece. He also answered questions after the meeting concerning the currency of Greece, the costumes of the soldiers and people and comparisons of their cuisine with that of the Americans, and other details.

life on the Aland islands. Here she found, instead of the comfortable home she had been promised, a miserable hut. Johann, her husband, was an improvident braggart, who sailed away and left her to provide for herself. By virtual slavery she kept herself and her children alive, but as the years went on a measure of respect for her shiftless husband took the place of resentment. A fine novel written with effortless simplicity.

DIXON, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1937

Bits of Gossip of Sports Picked Up By
AP Writer

By EDDIE RIETZ

New York, Nov. 5—(AP)—If I've been wondering where all that Southwest conference grid talent comes from, let me tell you. Twenty thousand schoolboys play in the Texas interscholastic football league annually. Those who should know it Joe Louis' next fight (against Max Baer in June) will be a close one, lose or draw. The barbers are threatening to picket Joe Jacobs, the fight manager, if he doesn't soon get a haircut. Stanford's basketball team will average six-foot-three this winter. Texas Christian, one of the best passing football outfits in the country, has played in the mud nine times in the last two years.

Chicago Cubs are reported interested in Lou Pette at Jim Turner of the Bees. One baseball manager who always got a respectful hearing from the umpires is Bucky Harris of Washington. Besides being backed by sound judgment, his arguments always are presented in a dignified and gentlemanly manner. W. C. Spencer, Mississippi State track coach, thinks Durwood Thompson, a freshman miler from Columbus, Miss., should be a greater runner than Don Lash, because he has a better physique and just a much stamina.

Dick Cassio, understudy to Marshall Goldner at Pitt, got straight "A's" in his studies last year. And who said tackles are dumb? Take the four big fellows on the St. Norbert college squad at West Dubuque, Wis.: Norb Coonen is editor-in-chief of the campus year book; Ted Kafka is an instructor in biology; Harry Neuman is the star pupil in the chemical lab and Tom Keneally sings a mean tenor in the glee club. Jimmy Cool, father of Eddie, Philadelphia's best lightweight, was a star 136-pounder in his day.

Pro football has taken Washington by storm. Sammy Baugh is the Joe DiMaggio of the capital. One of the hottest football games of the year is on tap when Rice and Texas Christian collide November 20. Jack Dempsey says old Gumbo Smith hit him harder than anyone else in his 15 years in the ring.

RED WINGS ABLE TO DEFEND CUPFirst Game Proves They Have What It Takes

By The Associated Press
Make no mistake about it. Those Detroit Red Wings have it again for this year's league hockey wars.

It's a little early to make any predictions about the outcome of the National league race, but the way the Wings came from behind with a two-goal, third-period spurge last night to deadlock the sturdy Maple Leafs, 2-2, in the season curtain-raiser gave ample evidence that they're ready for their title and Stanley cup defense. Ten thousand say the game at Toronto. Schnurer set the pace with a pair of scores as the few New York Americans manhandled the re-decorated, but still losing Chicago Blackhawks, 3-0.

The Amerks puled a red-hot offense out of the hat and went to town before 13,000 fans in Chicago, scoring once in the first period and winding up with another pair of tallies in the third, while the Hawks showed only a ragged defense and not much in the way of attack.

BARKER RATES
PITT TO BEAT
NOTRE DAMEPicking This Week
Like Jumping In
The Dark

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
New York, Nov. 5—(AP)—Steve Brodie was lucky. He survived that famous leap off the Brooklyn bridge. Not even this incorrigibly optimistic corner expects to do as much after peering, perhaps short-sightedly at this week's football program and taking the following hop, step and jump into the dark.

Notre Dame-Pitt: Waterloo and Marathons, Antietam and Belleau Wood have nothing to do with this except that maybe some blood will be shed here too. It's the last of the current Pitt-Notre Dame series and threatens to be the most sanguinary. Pitt's undefeated Notre Dame whipped Navy and Minnesota after a bad start. The nod, a little wishy-washy, goes to Pitt.

California—Washington: These Golden Bears are (or have been) the answer to any football guesser's prayer, California.

Harvard-Army: This corner, with blind faith, casts a hopeful ballot for Harvard. Tulane-Alabama: Can't see anything but Alabama here.

Buckeyes Favored
Ohio State-Indiana: The Hoosiers look like the only lads with any prospect at all of upsetting Ohio State's Big Ten appearance but we'll string along with the Buckeyes.

Baylor-Texas: Bible's Texas Longhorns haven't beaten anybody of note this year, and don't figure to do more than give Baylor's undefeated Bears a workout. Baylor-Fordham-Purdue: The Purdue are tough but we'll take Fordham.

Temple-Michigan State: Temple seems to be improving fast enough to get the call in this one. Villanova-Marquette: Well, there are a lot of interesting sights in Philadelphia. Villanova-Duquesne-Carnegie: It's Duquesne's misfortune that a none-too-robust schedule robs a fine team of proper recognition. Duquesne-Princeton-Dartmouth: No hope for Princeton here. Dartmouth-Penn-Penn State: Can't see Penn State winning this if the Quakers can hit the same peak they did against Navy.

Navy-Columbia: A pair of disappointments collide here with nothing to choose between them so far as the naked eye can see. Navy-Yale-Brown: Brown may keep the score within bounds but Yale must be picked.

Auburn-Tennessee: No tougher game on the slate but the form chart (bless its capricious heart) says Tennessee.

Louisiana State-Mississippi State: Louisiana.

Centenary-Texas Christian: If it isn't a tie we'll take Christian.

Iowa-Minnesota: The season's ruined for Minnesota but the Gophers ought to take this one.

Northwestern-Illinois: Northwestern's rolling along and should hurdle Illinois.

Michigan-Chicago: Michigan. Nebraska-Kansas: This probably decides the Big Six crown and Nebraska looks like a cinch.

Southern California-Stanford: The Trojans' superior manpower ought to furnish an edge here. Southern California.

Guest Picker Thrown to

His Way to Fame, Glory!Gladiator Jack Is Out To Uphold Our Average

Ha! We fooled you! This week we're staying safely inside our cubby-hole. We're not even sticking our neck out.

However we have a partner who's willing to risk his all on this week's picks, so like Caesar who reclined safely in his ringside box and watched the gory scene we'll throw our subject to the lions. What will it be dear public thumbs up or down?

BY JACK FRITZLEN
Guest Picker

There have been rumors around the office that a certain Dixon sports editor has emboldened his nom de plume upon the prognosticator's roll of honor for 1937 with a startling "pickem" percentage of .781.

I have been invited to expose my usually congenial nature to the jibes, jeers and hoots of the rabid college partisan whose teams I have selected to be on the short end of this week's score. Foremost among those who will eye me with disdain are Dixon's Notre Dame cohorts who have supreme faith in the superiority of "the Rambling Irish." (After last week's why not?) But after consulting three of the town's "leading pickers" I have decided to "swing" (everybody swings now-a-days) into line behind a Pitt forward wall that needs no backing up. Yep, there should be plenty of Irish stew (ed) this Saturday. It looks like either Pitt or Alabama for the eastern representative in Pasadena New Years.

Chicago... Michigan... The Maroons will still be blue Sunday. Holy Cross... Colgate... Colgate's Red Raiders will get the "double cross" from Holy Cross. It's the Crusaders' Day.

Navy... Columbia... An even game at the post, but I don't believe the marines will have to land to save this battle for navy.

Ohio State... Indiana... I don't care "Hoosier" pick—I'll take the Buckeyes. (But as an afterthought, watch Indiana's versatile Corby Davis.)

Fordham... Purdue... The Rams will dent anything the Boilermakers' rivet together.

Nebraska... Kansas... This is national Cornhusking Week and who can husk better than Nebraska Cornhuskers?

Michigan State... Temple... One of Saturday's best games. The Spartans should take Temple into camp.

Brown... Yale... It's another field day for Clint Frank and our average!

Tennessee... Auburn... It may be a blind choice—but Tennessee is a shade better than Auburn. (I hope).

Dartmouth... Princeton... A wrong time of the year for a track meet... but you know what we mean. (If you don't, we mean Hutchinson's sprints for Dartmouth.) How'm I doing, Elchier?

Northwestern... Illinois... The underdogs will chase the "Cats" but oh, the futility of it all! Zupke's Silver Anniversary will be a bit more tarnished. Yours truly is a product of Illinois but at this stage of the column he can't decide which is worst, this column or the 1937 Illini eleven. (If you read this Zup, I'm only foolin'!)

Alabama... Tulane... The Rose Bowl is about to be engulfed by the Crimson Tide—Tulane's Green Wave does not fit into the color scheme.

Minnesota... Iowa... The disappointment of defeat has stung "B." Bierman's team for the last time this season.

Texas... Baylor... Baylor, undefeated and untied, will remain so. Arkansas... Rice... Rice upset Auburn last week, but this week's Arkansas chapter will be different.

Southern Methodist... Texas A. & M... SMU has been stronger in later games but the Aggies look best.

Duquesne... Carnegie Tech... As tough a feud as "The Martin and the Coys." Yet, when it comes to victory. Technically speaking... we take Carnegie.

California... Washington U... Just another hurdle in the path of Vic Bottari and the California Bears to the Rose Bowl. They'll clear it easily.

Southern California... Stanford... Instead of the Trojans repeating history and pulling a horse into camp... they'll merely pull the Indians into camp. It's Howard Sykes' day.

Syracuse... Western Reserve... Dayton ended Western Reserve's 28-game winning streak last week! Syracuse will add insult to injury!

Detroit... Manhattan... We'll take Gus Dorais and his charges.

Georgia... Florida... The Bulldogs will go on a "Gator gorge" in Florida Saturday.

Army... Harvard... A real tough one. Army's barrage will

25 To 0 Thursday

Coach Alfred Strzepek's Community gridders crashed over Amboy of the Rock River Valley conference for a 25 to 0 victory Thursday on Sterling's field. Community scored in every quarter but the last.

Captain Nieman at left end was the scoring star for Community, making three of the four touchdowns. It remained for Ferris, quarterback, who played the best game of his career to pull the most sensational play of the day when he grabbed an Amboy punt and raced 80 yards for the touchdown in the third quarter. Nieman place-kicked the extra point.

Nieman scored the first touchdown on the third play of the game when he caught a lateral pass from Grennan and ran 15 yards for the score. He missed the place-kick for the extra point. In the second quarter Fane tossed a 28-yard pass to Nieman for a touchdown and Ferris missed the place-kick for the extra point. Later in the same quarter Nieman broke through the line for 26 yards and a touchdown. A pass for the point after touchdown was incomplete. Lineups and summary: Community (25) Amboy (0)

TEAMS RESUME
TITLE DRIVENorthwestern May Find
Illinois Trouble—some

Chicago, Nov. 5—(AP)—Notre Dame's fighting Irish tangle with Pitt's Panthers tomorrow in what looks like a knock-down drag-out battle.

Fifty-six thousand spectators are expected to pack Notre Dame's stadium at South Bend for the contest, which rates as the No. 1 tilt on the day's national gridiron program and has all the earmarks of those oft-heard but seldom seen "grudge" fights.

Indiana's Hoosiers, 33 strong, worked out at Columbus, where they will try to upset Ohio State's Big Ten title drive tomorrow. The Hoosiers rate as the highest hurdle in Ohio State's championship dash and figure to severely test the Francis Schmidt team.

Works On Defense
Northwestern, which worked on defense, will be favored to whip Illinois, but Bob Zupke's teams usually show well against the Wildcats and the 1936 champions aren't expecting an easy afternoon. Ralph Bennett, Illini sophomore, may get the starting fullback post over veteran Howie Carson.

Defensive work against Hawkeye plays occupied Minnesota's Gophers, who travel to Iowa hopeful of picking up a third conference victory against no defeats. Iowa's final practice drill was featured by a scrimmage in which the varsity looked impressive.

Michigan's punters were given a long workout as the Wolverines, confident of a third conference victory, prepped for Chicago's Maroons, who rehearsed their pass plays. Purdue goes outside the conference to meet Fordham at New York, with Wisconsin having an open date before entertaining Purdue at Madison.

About 35,000,000 trees were distributed through Federal and state cooperation to farmers in the last year for planting farm forests, windbreaks and shelterbelts.

Ray Ellinwood Back
On Maroon Campus

Chicago, Nov. 5—(AP)—Ray Ellinwood, the University of Chicago track sensation of 1935 who left the campus for a hermit's life in the California woods, is back on the midway again—but his return brings no joy to followers of the Maroon track team.

Ellinwood, who as a sophomore established a new indoor world record of 49.1 for the 440 yard run in his first intercollegiate race, left school to study philosophy in a cabin outside Pasadena. He returned yesterday to Chicago to complete requirements for a degree, but will not be eligible for athletic competition because he sold endorsement to a tobacco company.

PASS ARTISTS
FEATURED BY
PACKER TEAMGreen Bay Aerial
Troupe To Test Bear
Eleven

By ROCKY WOLFE

The two gents who hold the National League records at forward passing and receiving, made last year, will be among the visiting Green Bay Packers when they clash with the Bears Sunday afternoon at Wrigley Field.

Arny Herber, playing his seventh season with the Curly Lambeau tribe, heaved 173 spirals last year, completed 77 for a gain of 1,239 yards and had only 13 intercepted. Don Hutson was on the receiving end of 34 tosses, mostly from Herber, which netted a record yardage of 526.

Not Available

Herber wasn't available when the Bears invaded Green Bay last September and the Halas men emerged with a 14 to 2 victory. What Green Bay has done since then is evidence that Herber is the "sparkplug" of another great club.

All week Coach Halas has been devising ways and means to improve a none too tight defense from aerial thrusts, even to the extent of calling evening blackboard sessions, and not only has Mr. Herber been taken apart and pieced together again and again but so has Bob Monnett, who last season threw 52 and completed 20 with only two going astray.

The Bears have more driving power than the Packers with Nagurski, Manders, Nolting and Francis clicking; can match the Wisconsin machine at open field play and have a good passing attack and if they can even reasonably curb Herber et al. in the atmosphere they have a fifty-fifty chance of jolting the titleholders.

Jankowski Climbing

On the ground the Bears will have an additional worry with Clark Hinkle in Ed Jankowski, who in his first season with the post-graduates ranks with the best at line hustling and who is giving Hinkle a hot battle for individual Packer honors this campaign. Incidentally Hinkle averaged 4.76 yards in 100 trips last year as one of the high men in the circuit.

Only twelve other backs in the league were called upon to tote the oval more than 100 times. Bronko Nagurski and Monnett being among them. This is Hinkle's sixth term with the champs.

Only five others, Herber, Lou Gordon, Augie Michalske, Hank Bruder and Milt Gantenbein, have been in the harness longer than Hinkle. Augie in his eleventh, Gordon in his ninth season and the others in their seventh, which speaks volumes for the durability of the former Bucknell ace.

FOOTBALL SQUADS
NOT ALL FOREIGN SURVEY REVEALS

Washington, Nov. 5—(AP)—Headlines sometime indicate the Popovichs and Babartskys have taken over the gridirons, but a checkup today showed the Browns, Smiths and Jones still are in the majority.

A survey of a dozen major teams, representing every section, disclosed that one-third of the first team players are of English or Irish ancestry. A quarter of them have Teutonic forefathers.

There's not a single Anglo-American on Jimmy Crowley's starting eleven at Fordham, while Pittsburgh and Marquette have only two.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame really have some Irishmen this season. Anglo-Americans dominate the Yale and Colorado teams.

Here's how the ancestry of the others stack up:

Alabama: Four Irish, two Slavs, two English, one Scandinavian, and one Jew.

Michigan State: Five Germans, three English, one Scandinavian, one Dutch and one Syrian.

Minnesota: One Irish, one English, four

UNBEATEN TEAMS RENEW BATTLE FOR SURVIVAL

Last Pitt-Notre Dame Series Best Game On Schedule

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Squadrons of All-America candidates and a handful of unbeaten eleveners are in the van as 1937 football opens the November offensive tomorrow with firing that will be long, loud and lusty.

One of the season's dream games, Notre Dame at Pittsburgh at South Bend, will be the scene of the biggest concentration of artillery.

The setup is perfect. A lumbering savage Pitt eleven with all kinds of technical advantages, stacks up against an Irish team that is nothing much on form and a group of eleven hellions when the chips are down and the time is short.

This is the last game of a brilliant series. A win for the Irish will give them two of the season's most spectacular exploits, victories on successive Saturdays over Minnesota and Pitt.

The Big Ten can't offer much opposition although it has its share of notable engagements. Nebraska and Kansas and Oklahoma and Iowa State feature the Big Six program.

Purdue, a perennial stalwart of the Western conference, invades New York for a tussle with unbeaten Fordham. It is a key game for the Rams. Once past the dangerous Boilermakers they can ring out the old "Rose Hill to Rose Bowl" slogan.

Eastern Card Attractive
Ivy games and intercollegiate rivalries make up the remainder of the eastern schedule. Dartmouth invades Princeton and Yale entertains Brown. Columbia plays Navy at Baltimore and Army guns for its second major triumph against Harvard at Cambridge in the ivy category.

Michigan State stalks Temple at Philadelphia and Duquesne and Carnegie Tech meet for the empty honor of runner-up for Pittsburgh's city title.

Alabama, a southern leader with a leaning toward the Rose Bowl, engages Tulane, a team that has been good and bad at turns. The L. S. U. and Mississippi State game is another notable southern feature. Other appealing southern battles are Florida-Georgia, Auburn-Tennessee, Vanderbilt-Sewanee, Georgia Tech-Clemson, Centenary-T. C. U., and Duke-Wake Forest.

Unbeaten, untied Baylor faces Texas in the southwest with the Texas A. and M.-S. M. U. and Rice-Arkansas contest fighting for the fans' attention.

California should be tested severely by Washington in the coast's best clash. U. S. C. and Stanford present another impressive coast duel. Washington State-Oregon, Santa Clara-San Jose and Montana-Gonzaga also are matched in the far west.

A WATER ESCALATOR AT WORK

JUST as easy as today's shoppers are carried aloft on department store escalators—just so are huge ships lifted and lowered on their way through the Panama Canal. Watching these giant escalators at work is one of the big thrills of the cruise between New York, the Spanish Americas and California. As the liner passes through this greatest artificial waterway in the world, the three locks of Gatun raise it 85 feet to the level of Gatun Lake—a body of water 164 square miles in area made by throwing a dam across the Chagres River. After crossing the lake and passing through the Gaillard Cut, the ship is lowered again by Pedro Miguel and Miraflores locks to sea level. One of the big surprises of the 7-hour voyage is the discovery made upon arrival at Balboa that—due to the slant of the Isthmus—the port at the Pacific terminal of the Canal is farther east than the Atlantic terminal.

The building of this waterway is one of the greatest feats of engineering of modern times. Statistics give the most graphic picture: four and a half million cubic yards of concrete were used to build the locks, with a barrel of cement for every cubic yard of concrete. Thirty-eight billion cubic feet of water is needed to operate the locks each year. The material removed in digging this huge ditch would fill a tunnel 15 feet square reaching entirely through the earth. The depth of the Canal ranges from 42 to 45 feet at either end to 85 feet in the lake and lock section. The length of the channel from ocean to ocean is 50 miles and the air route across the Isthmus 34 miles.

Miss Leota Hanson will attend the state quarterly conference of the Church of God at Macomb Saturday and Sunday.

Shirley Tilton Post of the American Legion will hold their annual Armistice day service in the new high school auditorium Thursday November 11 at 10:45 and at this time present an American flag to the school. At the conclusion of the service the building will be open to the public for inspection during the remainder of the day and until 8 o'clock P. M.

The building, located at Tenth and Madison streets was a WPA project built at a cost of $170,000. On the east side is a study hall which will accommodate 100 students connected with a library for reference work. In the long hall on the main floor running the length of the building north and south are steel lockers assigned to each student for books, coats, hats, etc.

The chemistry, agriculture and general science rooms are on the main floor and a small glass enclosed room at the extreme south used in testing seed and soil.

The auditorium and gymnasium 50 by 90 feet is on the main floor at the west side with a gallery which will seat 400. The assembly and gymnasium will seat 1000.

Other rooms on the east side of the main floor are for music and manual training with the office of the superintendent at the east entrance.

The second floor is devoted to four class rooms, typing, commercial and domestic science. School board members are J. P. Putnam, president; G. P. Snyder, secretary; Charles Holm, Fred S. Maysilles. A cordial invitation is extended to the community to inspect the building and equipment at this time.

Mississippi Chapter 324 O. E. S. will observe Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons' night Saturday evening with a supper served by the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church, in the church parlors. Condition of the World Through Eyes of Babson

Noted Economist, Philosopher, Commentator Writes Series for Telegraph Readers

Winchester, England, Nov. 5.—How can American chain and department stores secure the goodwill of the public as have the English "Co-ops"? This question has been running through my mind all during my stay in England. Here is one suggestion:

The chains and department stores of the United States and Canada should make an effort to sell shares of ownership (their common stock) to their patrons—and only to their patrons.

Whether or not it would be well to give customers who are stockholders a small discount on their purchases, or to limit each stockholder to one vote, I am not sure. I am certain, however, that it would greatly help the present situation at home if the chains would start a systematic movement to secure every local customer as a stockholder.

Such a movement should not only increase sales, but should prevent unfair store taxes and other legislation. Furthermore, credit losses and overhead expenses could be reduced by limiting the credit of a customer to the amount of stock held. Merchants must find some middle-ground between doing a strictly cash business and the present tendency toward a universal credit and installment business. Debts kill more people than do germs!

Fear of "Co-ops"
I was interested to note that Woolworth, Ltd. has recently opened a new store here in Winchester. Their 680 English stores have the same red fronts as they do in the United States. They advertise goods at "Threepence" and "Sixpence" (six and twelve cents in our money). When Woolworth started in England, American investors were fearful that they could not compete with the great co-operative stores of Great Britain.

In fact, during recent years, along with many others, I have been afraid that the "Co-ops" would become a big factor in the United States and Canada and perhaps bring about revolutionary changes in our existing merchandizing methods. That is one reason why the stocks of American chain store systems are now selling so low. Since studying the English system, however, I have changed my opinion to some extent and readers will be interested in my reactions.

How the "Co-ops" Work
The co-operative stores started in a very humble way at Rochdale, England in 1844. Their growth has been gradual, but continuous. They now operate over 20,000 shops. They have a tremendous wholesale business and 168 factories, bakeries, and dairies. They even own foreign plantations. They have 300,000 employees. Their gross business is running much over $1,000,000,000 per year. They have nearly 8,000,000 members whose average yearly purchase of goods is $150. They have a share capital of about $700,000,000 and a loan capital of about $200,000,000. They are in fine financial condition.

These English co-operative stores should be compared with department stores in the United States and Canada. The "Co-op" are not merely grocery and meat chains. They handle all manner of goods. They are more like our Sears-Robuck type of store. Yet, while these co-operatives have been making such tremendous headway, the chains and the independent stores of England have also been flourishing. Actually, the "Co-ops" may not have increased their proportion of the total merchandise sold in Great Britain during the past ten years!

Co-operatives' Creed
The co-operatives work on the following principles:
1. Their prices are competitive. They sell to everyone—to non-members as well as to members.
2. You join by buying one share of stock (par $5.00). Then you are entitled to a discount on your total purchases at the end of the year. This discount varies from year-to-year according to the net earnings of the society to which you belong. In practice, it has averaged about 5 per cent. If you spend $1,000 during the year, you get back a "dividend" of $50.

3. You are offered additional "shares"—from $5 to $1,000—as time goes on. The shares can be purchased only by actual customers. Each shareholder has one vote irrespective of the amount of stock held. The stock used to pay 5 per cent dividend but now pays only 3-4 per cent.

4. You are offered debentures up to a small limited amount, but only in the society where you trade. These loans carry no vote and now pay 3-4 per cent.

5. You are supposed to buy merchandise only for cash. However, if you are a stockholder, you can run up a credit to the amount of your stock.

6. The co-operative movement has a very good civic influence and carries almost a religious appeal. To this extent, it is far better for communities than are our chain stores! The churches should endorse the co-operative movement.

Bullish on American Chains
Despite the praise showered upon Co-operative Societies, readers can see that they offer little to investors or consumers which cannot be matched by existing privately-operated stores in North America. Certainly, our chain store shares give investors a better yield. The prices charged consumers by some of our chains should average 5 per cent less than the co-operative prices, thus offsetting the discount given by the societies. As a matter of fact, after having heard so much about the English co-operatives in the last few years, I was surprised to find so many independent stores over here.

Certainly, if the co-operatives offer consumers such tremendous advantages, these independent merchants of England would not be so numerous and prosperous as they are today. From a competitive price standpoint, our independent stores and chains have nothing to fear from the co-operative movement. If, however, there is to be a differential as to taxes or other considerations, that is a horse of another color. In this connection, the co-operatives have an edge in public relations. They develop a strong local sympathy and loyalty, while our chains have, in the past at least, tended to develop local animosity and distrust. That is why I believe some method of customer ownership would help our chain and department store merchants.

Tracing English History
Historians were interested in discoveries made during the excavating for this new Woolworth chain store here in Winchester. While digging the cellar for this new building, the construction workers came in turn to five separate and distinct periods in English history. The first six feet yielded English relics covering a 700-year period back to about 1200 A. D. While excavating the next few feet, utensils were found which were strictly Norman, thus showing the level of the city from 1200 back to 1060 A. D.

The next five feet unearthed implements of the Anglo-Saxon Age—from 1060 back to 400 A. D. Digging deeper, flag-stones and other ruins of the Roman city which existed from 400 A. D. back to about 100 B. C. were discovered. Finally, under these great stones were found symbols of the Bronze, Iron, and Stone Age which extended back to perhaps 3000 B. C.

This entire collection was presented by the Woolworth Company to the Winchester Museum. During these five eras, England has tried every method of selling goods from straight barter to street peddling to modern chain and department stores. Yet, the honest, efficient, and progressive independent merchants have survived all these changes. Alert independents, by adopting many of the methods of their competitors, are still prospering. Yes, today in England with all the "Co-ops", the chains, the mail-order houses, and department stores, there are more independent merchants than ever. Most of them, moreover, are making a good living!

Exeter, England.—To get to England from France seems like returning home! In fact, Great Britain seems like home every time that I visit it. Thirty years ago I first came to England. Then America was progressive; while England seemed to be drowsy. We used typewriters; while the English used quill pens. We wore sensible clothes; and Prince Albert coats to business. While the English wore silk hats. Elevators, central heating, and private bath-rooms were then practically unknown in England except in the most exclusive hotels.

Today all this has changed. England has adopted all our worth-while customs—except good coffee! (Some American will make a fortune going to England and selling good hot coffee.) While we have been growing softer and weaker since the World War, the British Isles have been growing brighter and stronger. While we are increasing costs; England is lowering them. While we are losing foreign trade; England is gaining it. All this progress, moreover, has been against great odds.

Labor Unions in England
English labor leaders consist of two distinctly different groups. Many are "intellectuals" who look at the problem from a theoretical standpoint; others are very practical, being the product of the railways, the mines, or the mills. When I first visited England, labor was fighting for recognition. It was organizing and striking. Feeling ran very high. Later there developed a strong Labor Party.

After the World War, this party entered politics and secured control of the government. England was given a "New Deal." The Labor Party, however, soon learned that in running a nation there are other factors to consider besides wages and hours. Increased wages and shorter hours sent up costs so much

STORIES IN STAMPS

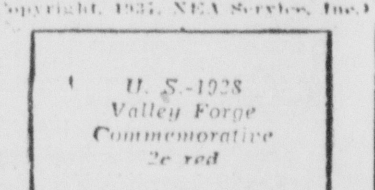

WEATHERED CRISIS AT VALLEY FORGE

THE success that had marked George Washington's generalship through most of the Revolution turned to grim defeat in 1777. That year was marked by the British capture of Philadelphia, and intrigues to remove Washington from his command.

On Sept. 11, leading some 11,000 men, "badly armed and worse clothed," Washington risked a pitched battle with superior British forces at the forks of Brandywine creek, near Wilmington and was fortunate only to extricate his army in fairly good order. On Sept. 26 the British triumphantly marched into Philadelphia.

Congress, meanwhile, fled to the interior of Pennsylvania and Washington was left to a tragic winter at Valley Forge. Defeated, ill-housed, ill-fed, "barefoot and otherwise naked," thousands of his men were at the point of exhaustion. Harsh public opinion embittered the picture and the colonial Congress was too weak to help. Yet Washington persevered, inspired his men, survived the winter to bring subsequent victory for the colonists. This was to prove the most critical period of his life. He is shown on a 1928 U. S. commemorative stamp, praying in the woods at Valley Forge that winter of 1777-78.

that England could not compete in world markets. This resulted in unemployment.

Strange as it may seem to Americans, the Labor Party recognized it had "bitten off more than it could chew." A Coalition Government then came into power. To some extent, this Coalition Government still rules England. The following, however, should be interesting to Americans:—After English wage workers became thoroughly organized and collective bargaining was universally granted, labor troubles ceased for the most part. The outcome has been much the same as in the case of the fight for woman's suffrage.

Women who "turned heaven and earth" to get the vote, now do not bother to cross the street to exercise this vote. Ever since I was Assistant to the Secretary of Labor at Washington, I have felt that "collective bargaining" is both fair and inevitable in the United States. Furthermore, after it becomes general, United States labor unions will be made to incorporate and will be held responsible as in England. There are very few labor troubles in Great Britain today.

Mussolini and Hitler.
England owes much to Mussolini and Hitler. Twenty years ago the English were a self-satisfied and inefficient people—except in foreign trade and on the seas. After the War, England was in a broken-down condition. But the war did much for her—spiritually and intellectually. After taking a needed rest following it, England woke up and has since been very active. The war may have been a blessing in disguise. Now, Mussolini and Hitler have come along. I do not say that these two gentlemen have frightened the British government, but they certainly consolidated the English nation into one harmonious people. From this angle, England sets a good example for us.

This brings me to say a word about the government of great Britain. Without doubt it is the most able of any in the world. Government in England is a profession for which people train from their youth. Its leaders and public servants are both honest and capable. Unlike America and France, all the people of Great Britain have confidence in their government. Yet a Sunday at Hyde Park will convince anyone that England leads the world in freedom of speech as well as freedom from crime.

In the United States, I am sorry to say, respect for the courts is undermined by the government itself. Not so in England. Next to the church, the courts stand in the highest esteem. Americans have made a great success of production, but we have utterly failed in government. Furthermore, we have much to learn from England regarding banking and foreign trade.

General Business Improving

Agriculture is not doing well in England. John Bull does not begin to feed himself. Most of the aid to farmers practiced by the Roosevelt Administration has been tried in England and has failed. English boys and men still prefer the sea to the farm. Hence, British foreign trade has steadily increased since 1932. 1937 will be within 20 per cent of the previous high of 1929. British firms not only make a profit through carrying, insuring, and financing exports and imports, but English goods are sold at a profit all over the world. British manufacturers are allowed to unite in both foreign and domestic pools to maintain prices at a fair level.

The agricultural and industrial centers are very busy with almost no unemployment. When figures for home consumption are studied, nearly all show an increase due to the new tariff policy which England adopted a few years ago. Tariffs are a basic cause of war. Yet it probably was the only thing for England to do under the circumstances. The greatest advance in new building. As I motor about the country, small houses are going up everywhere.—England is fast becoming a nation of individually-owned homes. There cannot be better insurance of social stability.

American FED up at Downing Street

President Roosevelt's plan to unite the democracies of America, England, and France in a stand for world peace was well received here. As a result, American stock has risen 100 per cent in the minds of everyone. This was a masterstroke given at just the right time. I sincerely hope the President meant what he said at Chicago and has since repeated. Surely another European War would be a great blow to us in the United States whether or not we are in it. Yet by merely announcing now to Germany and Italy that in case of conflict we will back England and France, there will be no war.

TAMMANY FINDS ITS SOLACE IN FUTURE YEARS

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Tammany Hall, its comeback hopes smashed by an avalanche of votes cast for Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia's "good government" and Thomas E. Dewey's promise of "no more racketeers," found solace in aspirations held for 1938 and "years to come."
Mayor La Guardia predicted the "doom forever" of New York City machine government, adding:
"Four years ago, a non-partisan non-political government in New York City was a sort of experiment, but we have demonstrated that it is possible and also desirable."
Slap for Farley, Lehman
He was speaking of machine politics of Tammany Hall, defeated Tuesday for the first time twice in a row by "reform candidates," and which was staggered by the blow dealt by voters in spite of pleas for Jeremiah T. Mahoney by Postmaster General James A. Farley, Governor Herbert H. Lehman and other Democratic leaders.
Today, all Tammany had to say was to echo leader Sullivan:
"We face the future cheerfully and look forward to glorious victories in 1938 and the year to come."
The work of building and strengthening the party begins today and preparations are under way already for perfecting the organization to bring it to a higher state of efficiency to assure success next year.
Labor Party New Factor
Meanwhile, Charles A. Schneider, assistant attorney general and 8th assembly district Tammany leader whom Dewey had charged with accepting racketeers' fees for defending a man charged with murdering a 1934 labor war, resigned his state position saying he did not want the state "sullied" by the "false charges."
Another outgrowth of the election centered around the American Labor party.
That organization, one of La Guardia's backers, had risen to new heights as a factor in New York City politics, and perhaps was making a bid for national recognition. After giving La Guardia half a million votes, it telegraphed Misses Beth Hower and Wanda Hower of Lanark and Dick Bentley of Polo left Wednesday for the University of Illinois at Urbana, where they will spend three days, returning Saturday. While there, Dick Bentley will play in the trombone section of the All-State orchestra of 150 pieces. Miss Ruth Hower will have charge of the sectional rehearsals of the French horns.

About 150 members of the Church of the Brethren observed "family night" at the church Monday. The affair was in the form of a farewell for Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Heckman who are here on furlough from India. Following the scramble supper, a program was given. Musical numbers were furnished by a trio and quartette from Sterling and by the Robert Blough family, Rev. and Mrs. Heckman gave short talks. They were presented with a purse and responded, expressing their appreciation.
"Blow Me Down," a pirate operetta written by Donn Crane and Allan Benedict will be presented Friday night, Nov. 12 at 8 p. m. by the glee clubs of Polo community high school, under the direction of Robert A. Choate. An able cast will portray the story of a pirate crew who find that piracy does not pay. They capture a group of students on a world cruise, make them part of their band, and decide to go into the cabaret business, instead of pirating. The ship is anchored in a harbor and a group of college girls with their dean come aboard to see it. They are kept by the pirates for waitresses and performers for the floor show in the cabaret. From here the story takes quite a sudden turn and finally ends happily for all concerned.
Miss Pauline Heffebower spent from Friday until Wednesday in the Mrs. Emma and Clarence Van Buskirk homes at Lanark. She was also a guest in the Charles Sac home at Argo Pay Sunday.

"I heard someone say"

Not so long ago, people depended upon tales of returned travelers for their information about distant lands. Even when true, these tales were frequently misunderstood and misquoted. Often they were tall tales to begin with . . . There was no way to check up on these stories, no agency devoted to the accurate reporting of what really happened around the world.
Today journalism of integrity is an authoritative source on which to base stories, judgments and opinions. Furthermore, the published story can be referred to and reread in its unchangeable form.
Such journalism requires great care in its compilation, for it must withstand the strong light of publication.
During a half century of development The Associated Press has adhered closely to an ideal of journalistic integrity. That is the reason why newspapers of today can bring to their readers truthful and unbiased reports of what is happening all over the world.

GOOD THOUGHTS

On all affairs of human life, social as well as political, I have remarked that courtesies of a small and trivial character are the ones which strike deepest to the grateful and appreciating heart.

—Henry Clay.

The gentle mind by gentle deeds is known.

For a man by nothing is so well betrayed
As by his manners.

—Spenser

Your manners will depend very much upon the quality of what you frequently think on; for the soul is tinged and colored with the complexion of thought.

—Marcus Aurelius.

The Golden Rule contains the last word on manners, as it does on most other laws of living.

—Thomas Nelson Page.

Self-denial is practical, and is not only polite to all but is pleasant to those who practice it.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edification, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. And be ye kind one to another.

—Ephesians 4.

JILL

 MARY RAYMOND

Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
 JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, attractive debutante.
 ALAN JEFFREY, hero, rising young artist.
 BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's
 stepbrother.
 JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's
 brother.
 SYLVIA SUTTON, old heiress.

CHAPTER XIV

MISS DEXTER, watching Mrs.
 Wentworth nervously, saw her face turn a dull red. She was still staring down at the list.

Jeffrey, Mrs. Wentworth was thinking. Where had she heard that name? Oh, yes, Jill had told her it was the name of the young man who had stalked by Perkins.
 The young man who had rudely demanded to see Jill.

So this was the special reason.
 The rude young man with the lordly airs was the cause of Jill's suddenly awakened social interest.

She had been duped by a clever girl. If the immodest upstart came to the party, Jill would have eyes for no one else. She wouldn't know Milo was there. And she had already hurt his feelings terribly.

Jill was simply a fool who must be protected against herself.
 Mrs. Wentworth scanned the boxes, which were packed in alphabetical precision, pulling out an envelope here and there until she found the J's. She could feel Miss Dexter's eyes upon her, which made no difference at all.

In a moment, she had Alan Jeffrey's invitation safely out of the box. Safely in her own hands.

"I'll speak to Jill about this invitation," she said, her eyes slanting away from Miss Dexter's direct gaze.

"The old fox," Miss Dexter thought.

If she knew which invitation had been removed, she could send another. But it would mean rechecking the invitations in that particular box. And how could that be done when Mrs. Wentworth still held Jill's list and evidently had no idea of returning it.

SUPPOSE she spoke to Jill about it, and Jill gave the name of the objectionable young man. Mrs.
 Wentworth would be sure to see him at the dance, and it might mean the loss of her job.

Jill, meanwhile, was going through the days buoyed by a splendid hope.
 Each day she waited for one "accepts with pleasure." She would not allow the negative word "regrets" to enter her mind.

But the evening of the party arrived and no word had come from Alan.

He will phone, Jill decided. Busy young men who worked rather than played perhaps took these short, social cuts.

All the time she was getting ready, Jill had an attentive ear open for the telephone. While she was emerging glowing from her bath . . . while she was dusting her face and shoulders with fragrant powder . . . when she was slipping into scant, silken things.
 And finally, when the white and silver gown went slithering down over her head, aided by her maid's practiced hands, to mold her slim body and sweep out in smart, flaring lines.

She was thinking: "He hasn't phoned. But he'll come. Of course he'll come!"

MRS. WENTWORTH had come into the room and was surveying Jill critically.

"You look very nice," she conceded, after a moment. "I must say that is the smartest evening dress you've had in a long time, even if I did select it. All you need now are your flowers. I never saw so many. You can't wear all of them. But there's a gorgeous bouquet of white orchids that Milo sent. They would be perfect with your gown."

"I'll wear them, with Bill's,"
 Jill said, unexpectedly tractable.
 Troubled waters were ahead. It was just as well to begin pouring oil.

Mrs. Wentworth noted the smile curving the corners of Jill's mouth.
 "She's thinking of Alan Jeffrey and how she outwitted me," she thought.

Well, Jill would soon find out he wasn't coming. She would doubtless put his unexplained absence down to deliberate rudeness.
 Then, no doubt, she would sensibly start putting him out of her mind. As she should have done long ago.

A secretive smile was playing over Mrs. Wentworth's face as she went out and closed the door behind her.

The telephone rang a few minutes later and Jill picked up her own phone. It must be Alan!

It was Patty.

"JILL, something has come up.
 An important meeting with a publisher. So . . . can't come to your party. I'll go plutocratic another time, if you'll ask me. I wish could be there so I could relay the swank details to Ardath. Did you know she's moved? Must say the town is a pleasanter place now. But she calls me sometimes when she's full of surplus conversation."

MERRY-GO-ROUND SAW LAGUARDIA VICTORY COMING

Even Predicted The Exact Size Of His Majority

The Washington Merry-Go-Round column by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen has again demonstrated the political acumen of its authors by flat-footedly predicting the landslide re-election of Mayor La Guardia of New York City.

They even hit the exact size of his majority, saying he would win by "upwards of 400,000." His actual vote was 454,525 ahead of his opponent, Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

In a Brass Ring sketch of Mayor La Guardia, published in the column on Saturday, October 30, and written several days before that, Pearson and Allen said:

"All his life Fiorello H. La Guardia has gone about shattering traditions, and next Tuesday he will smash another. He will torpedo the unbroken New York City rule that no reform mayor can be re-elected."

"Not only will the dynamic 'Little Flower' repeat, but he will win by a majority of upwards of 400,000 and will carry into office with him as district attorney the racket-busting Tom Dewey. Further, the chances are good that the La Guardia landslide will give him control of the new city council and elect Republicans Newbold Morris and Joseph McGoldrick as council president and city controller."

In the election held the following Tuesday, the Merry-Go-Round's accuracy was proven when Dewey, Morris and McGoldrick were elected by sizeable majorities. Although the city council proportional representation ballots had not yet been counted, the size of the Fusion vote made it obvious that in this respect, too, the prediction would hit the nail on the head.

Pearson and Allen have frequently "gone out on a limb" in predicting elections, and have never yet had to stay there. Their famous feat was the forecast of an easy re-election for President Roosevelt over Governor Landon, at a time when nearly all other national political writers were hedging.

As in the La Guardia prediction, the Merry-Go-Round left itself no "out," and as everyone knows, did not have to apologize for its fore-sighted comments after the votes were counted and Roosevelt carried all but two states.

MT. MORRIS

By Pauline Yoe

A large crowd of dancers from the Kable News Welfare association bid farewell to a departing October at a party in the town hall Friday evening. Goblins and ghosts mingled with the guests who came clad in hard time costumes, as they glided to the lilting tunes of Lute Geisinger's orchestra. Carnival games and a hall of terror provided additional entertainment for the guests. The committee responsible for the pleasant evening was composed of Charlotte Adams, Marian Bulker, Allen Yoder, Rolland Moody, Maurice Bates, Everett Henderson, Lou Cartha Jones and Mrs. James Ferguson. Mrs. Ferguson and Charles Edison received prizes for their costumes.

Mrs. Grace Coffman entertained members of the Fortnightly club at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ira Hendrickson had high totals and Mrs. James Watt low at the Q. P. K. bridge party held at the home of Mrs. Frank Horton last Friday afternoon.

We might give a new twist to that old phrase, "often a bridesmaid, and never a bride." In the audience which heard Marjorie Hills at Rockford Woman's club Tuesday afternoon was Mrs. Harry Cushing, who, on one occasion served as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Hills' parents. However, she turned out to be Miss Hills was never a bride.

Miss Hills, well known author of "Live Alone and Like It" and "Orchids on Your Budget," cleverly detailed the advantages of single blessedness, and stated that woman has arrived at a new era in which she is more completely independent from the tie that binds.

Others from Mt. Morris who attended Miss Hills' lecture on "Solitary Refinement" were the Mesdames Lanh Newcomer, Donovan Mills, Milo Zimmerman, Paul Yoe and Paul Boyle.

Parking privileges in the McHenry garage were voided temporarily Saturday evening when the sub-debs took it over for a gay and hilarious Halloween party. Dancing and games were topped with refreshments served by the girls.

The club membership included the Mesdames Pauline McHenry, Harriet Heller, Dorothy Spiker, Carol Pittenger, Jean Davison, Jean Smith and Mary Bea Edson, and their guests were Joe Robbins, Eddie Webster, Bob Robinson, John Yoe, Bryant Zimmerman, Robert Kump and Dick Steffen.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schrader of Rock Island visited in the Ralph Sawyer home over the weekend. On Sunday the two couples drove to Janesville, Wis., where they were guests of friends.

Though "the best of friends must part," it is a happy philosophy that rules that the parting should be a happy one. Mrs. Charles Hodson, who is leaving the last of the week to join her husband in St. Charles, was the guest of honor at two parties this week. On Tuesday evening the Cameron Findlay home was the scene of a gay party when the members of the Typographical auxiliary met to compliment Mrs. Hodson. Miss Hazel Roller won the high prize for bridge. Mrs. Walter Olsen had the high score for five hundred and Mrs. James Ferguson was high in "42." Mrs. Hodson was presented with a gift from members of the organization.

On Wednesday evening the Mesdames John Giotfelty, John Mc-

Gee, Gerald Lamm, Ted Swan, Edmond Lamm, and Frank Aufderbeck were guests of Mrs. Lawrence Lamm at a party for Mrs. Hodson. The evening hours were spent around the bridge tables. Mrs. Hodson was presented with a gift from her friends at the close of the play.

All the old fashioned trimmings were heaped on the table at the home of Professor and Mrs. Ira R. Hendrickson when they were hosts to members of the high school faculty and wives at their Lincoln street home Wednesday evening. A large bowl of golden fruit which centered the long table was complemented by a color scheme of pink and green. The guests, who remained long at the table talking of "cabbages and kings," spent the late evening playing games.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Henricks, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Schrader, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yoe and the Mesdames Marian Symphon, Nell Bishop, Mary McCall and Edna Coulson.

The Mesdames Donovan Mills, O. A. Hanke, Harold Floce, Tom Wilson, Fred Colvin, Lulu Buss and Miss Hazel Roller were bridge guests of Mrs. Mark Crawford on Wednesday evening.

Following the lecture given by Dr. Irving Mauer in the high school auditorium Monday evening the members of the Woman's club met in the music room for a short business session.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webster entertained Dr. Irving Mauer, president of Beloit college, at dinner Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. George Priller and son Melvin and the Webster's son Eddie were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prugh were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Booth, Mrs. Pearl Kable and Dr. Ted Thomas at a party last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lizer, with Phyllis, Ronald and Donna and Mr. and Mrs. John Buck with Arden and Mary were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Buck Sunday on the occasion of Mrs. Ira Buck's birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Ella Winters will entertain members of the Lutheran Missionary society at her home Thursday afternoon.

There will be a complimentary supper for the officers and teachers of the Sunday school next Wednesday evening in the church parlors.

On November 19 the members of the Brotherhood class of the church will serve a chicken and waffle supper in the church.

Mrs. Josie Ray will give the program when members of the Christian Missionary society meet at the home of Mrs. Ray Blecker Wednesday afternoon.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be held in the church next Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elmer Clapper, chairman, will be assisted by the Mesdames Louise Brinker, Adelaide Seaver, May Thompson, Walter Klepfer, Mary Cratty, Harold Ross, and Ray Stone-braker as hostesses for the after-

"Now, I'll be the fairy princess and you be the G-Man. You talk in and look romantic at me and say 'Wake up, in the name of the law!'" noon. Mrs. Thomas King will lead the devotions. Plans will be discussed for the December dinner.

Mrs. Harry Cushing was assisted by Mrs. D. G. Carpenter Wednesday afternoon when she entertained members of the Missionary society at her home on Brayton road. Miss Edith Hanstine gave the program, Mrs. Ray Avey led devotions and Mrs. Fayette Rose gave a mite box talk.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Church of the Brethren met each Thursday afternoon in the church parlors.

A friendship that started in Germany and has continued through the years in this country was more firmly cemented when Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Schrader entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dreibrodt of Chicago on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Dreibrodt and Mrs. Schrader celebrated their birthday anniversaries, both ladies having been born in the same house but a year apart. The cake for the party was made by Mrs. Schrader's mother.

The Mesdames Loretta Gilbert, Betty McDaniels and Alice Lambert were hostesses at a Halloween party at the Snowberger home last Friday evening. The evening was spent playing bridge. Present were the Mesdames Virgil Turner, Jane Locke, Thelma Mott, Ruth Berry and Mrs. Ross Stouffer.

In honor of Mrs. Harold Longman who before her recent marriage was Miss Naomi Womichel, the Mesdames Ruth Neis, Pauline Ballard, Francine Hilger, Minnie Diehl, Helen and Viola Rasmussen together with Mrs. Paul Smith and Mrs. Gladys Miller gave a shower party at the home of the bride's parents on Monday evening. The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND three different ships and equip them with fire prevention safeguards before again carrying passengers.

Roosevelt issued his instructions after reading a Washington Merry-Go-Round account of how "Uncle Dan" Roper's commerce department not only had exempted the company from installing sprinkler systems, as required by a new law, but had given it an extension of time to put in less expensive "firestops"—non-combustible cleats between floors and walls.

The law called for the installation of sprinkler systems on U. S. passenger ships by October 1, 1937. Using a provision in the act permitting exceptions from this requirement "in the case of a particular vessel," the commerce department secretly authorized the Dollar Line to substitute "firestops" in its nineteen President ships.

The day after the President read the Merry-Go-Rounds disclosure, government inspectors received telegraphic orders to dock the vessels. One day later the company asked the U. S. maritime commission for a $1,000,000 loan to install the required equipment.

The request precipitated a hot row in the commission. Commissioner Edward Morgan vigorously opposed it because the company was in default on $14,000,000 already owed the government, urging that no more money be advanced until arrangements were made to ensure repayment of the overdue debt. After a two-hour argument, the Dollar Line proposal was vetoed by a 3-2 vote.

Bear Raiding
SEC suspicions that "bear raiding" (short selling) played a leading role in the recent stock market crash have been fully confirmed by a secret New York Stock Exchange report.

The survey, made at the request of the Commission, covered trading in five leading stocks for a period of three weeks. The SEC suspected that "bears" were short-circuiting prices, but when the exchange report was received, officials were astounded.

A 10 per cent proportion of total transactions would be an unusually high short interest. But the report disclosed that short sales were 22 per cent of the total volume of trading in the five stocks. In one of them it ran over 30 per cent.

When Commissioner Robert F. Healy examined the report he exclaimed: "Jumping Jupiter!" "Looks like we've got something there, eh, Judge?" remarked Chairman William Douglas. "It looks like the boys have been playing tricks."

McGrady's Successor
John Michael Carmody, two-fisted head of the rural electrification administration, is Secretary Perkins' private choice to succeed Edward F. McGrady as her first assistant secretary.

Carmody is no laborite. He is an engineer. But he stands well with the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., whose feuding has prevented appointment of a union man to the job. Also, Carmody is regarded by Roosevelt as one of the best executives in the government.

The difficulty in switching Carmody to the labor department is that he is not overly enthusiastic about being switched.

As REA boss he is running his own show. As assistant labor secretary he would be under Miss Perkins, and McGrady's experience was not the kind to make that post appealing. Whether he can be persuaded is problematical.

Meanwhile, the department is limping along, minus not only a successor to McGrady but without a second assistant secretary. The latter place has been unfilled for more than a year.

Merry-Go-Round
Spanish Ambassador de los Rios has had more academic posts than diplomatic. He has taught at the Universities of Mexico, Puerto Rico, Havana, Cambridge, Oxford, the Sorbonne, and the Spanish Institute of Paris. . . . For the first time in history, Argentina is importing as much from the United States as from England. September figures showed that imports from the two countries were almost exactly equal. . . . The department of agriculture offers this definition of the ideal tea: "It is a brisk, full, rich, flavor tea; thick and sirupy in the cup; not dark but rich in color." . . . Trying to clear its skirts of the charge that WPA workers refuse to take jobs in private employment, WPA has conducted investigations of 100 "job refusals." Conclusion: "The number actually found to have refused jobs in private industry is so small as to be insignificant." (Copyright 1937, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)
